

Question 1

Question 2

The image shows a website layout for the San Joaquin Valley Town Hall. The header features a logo with a stylized 'H' and a person, followed by the text "San Joaquin Valley Town Hall" and the tagline "Bringing cutting-edge speakers to the valley". The main content area is divided into two columns. The left column is titled "This season's guest speakers" and lists a schedule of speakers from October to April. Below this is a section titled "Looking for a unique gift?" which describes ticket options. The right column is titled "Lecture notes" and contains two sub-sections: "Event change for November" and "Lecture day, time, and location". A footer at the bottom right contains the copyright notice "© Copyright 2022 San Joaquin Valley Town Hall."

- November: Andrew Ross Sorkin
- January: Amy Chua
- February: Scott Sampson
- March: Carlos Eire
- April: Ronan Tynan

Looking for a unique gift?

Town Hall has the answer. For only $100, you can get a book of tickets for all of the remaining speakers. And the bargain includes a second book of tickets for a companion.

Or, for $50, you can give yourself the gift of our speakers, and still get an extra ticket for a companion, but for just one of the events. See you at the next show?

Fossil Threads in the Web of Life

What's 75 million years old and brand spanking new? A teenage Utahceratops! Come to the Saroyan, armed with your best dinosaur roar, when Scott Sampson, Research Curator at the Utah Museum of Natural History, steps to the podium. Sampson's research has focused on the ecology and evolution of late Cretaceous dinosaurs and he has conducted fieldwork in a number of countries in Africa.

Scott Sampson is a Canadian-born paleontologist who received his Ph.D. in zoology from the University of Toronto. His doctoral work focused on two new species of ceratopsids (horned dinosaurs) from the Late Cretaceous of Montana, as well as the growth and function of ceratopsid horns and frills.

Following graduation in 1993, Sampson spent a year working at the American Museum of Natural History in New York City, followed by five years as assistant professor of anatomy at the New York College of Osteopathic Medicine on Long Island. He arrived at the University of Utah accepting a dual position as assistant professor in the Department of Geology and Geophysics and curator of vertebrate paleontology at the Utah Museum of Natural History. His research interests largely revolve around the phylogenetics, functional morphology, and evolution of Late Cretaceous dinosaurs.

In addition to his museum and laboratory-based studies, Sampson has conducted paleontological work in Zimbabwe, South Africa, and Madagascar, as well as the United States and Canada. He was also the on-air host for the Discovery Channel's Dinosaur Planet and recently completed a book, Dinosaur Odyssey: Fossil Threads in the Web of Life, which is one of the most comprehensive surveys of dinosaurs and their worlds to date.

Our Mission

San Joaquin Valley Town Hall is a non-profit organization that is run by an all-volunteer board of directors. Our mission is to bring nationally and internationally renowned, thought-provoking speakers who inform, educate, and entertain our audience! As one of our members told us:

"Each year I give a ticket package to each of our family members. I think of it as the gift of knowledge... and that is the process."
